CARRIER

During my childhood, I had always nurtured a strong passion for the arts and graphic design. However, as a student, I was encouraged to pursue economics. It wasn't until I reached the age of 25 and gained independence that I made the courageous choice to entirely redirect my career path and follow my genuine passion: design.

Being primarily self-taught, I was fortunate to immerse myself in the realms of graphic and digital design. Along my journey, I accumulated valuable experience while collaborating with skilled design teams and creative directors.
